MONTHLY REPORT ON MACKIE'S CELLAR' BLEND OF SCOTCH WHISKY.

Hereby certify that I have taken samples of every vatting of Mackie's 'White Horse Cellar' Blend of Scotch Whisky used in bottling during the month of December, and the results of my analyses indicate that it conforms to the standard for Pot Still Scotch Whisky set up in the London case, I am also of opinion that it is an old Whisky of excellent quality and flavour which has been well matured in wood.

SAN FRANCISCO, THEN AND NOW.

Any criticism of San Francisco's present troubles which fails to take into account the extraordinary history of that city will not do entire justice to the subject; nor would it be fair to the virile manhood and womanhood of the California, metropolis to overlook the fact, looming large always in the darkest periods of the city's history, that the really decent men and women there have never failed to rise supreme to the occasion when corruption in the public 100 A L service exposed personal and property rights to the hazards of a criminal cabal. San Francisco, in common with the entire state of California, has inherited many misfortunes; no impartial critic can read San Francisco's or California's history without feeling that another age has ren its wicked influences into the present to blight and mar what otherwise might have been a bright and inspiring picture. Several times in the history of San Francisco it has been necessary for the citizens to take charge of their own affairs because of the inability or unwillingness of the regular legal authorities to afford them the protection they had a right to expect and demand. It was so in 1851 and 1856. Vigilance committees have played a big part in San Francisco's history. Popular tribunals have been forced to do frequently, the work which the regular paid and sworn officials failed to do; they have tried, condemned and excented offenders, and driven others from the border of the state. Such proceedings were necessary between 1849 and 1854, when 1,200 murders were committed in San Francisco, out of a total of 4,200 in the state, and when only one conviction was had in the first city of California. A recurrence of lawlessness in 1856 again forced a revival of the vigilance committee. The source of the law had been contaminated. Civil authority was weak and vacillating. The courts were uncertain. Even judges of the supreme court engaged in street brawls. Murder assassination, robbery, plunder, and crime of almost every kind known to the calendar, had become common. Society was unprotected. In such circumstances the decent citizens took over the roins of government and administered their own

Thus, at each crisis in the history of San Francisco, the citizens, once roused to a full sense of their responsibility, have never failed to conquer over the forces of evil. Drastic measures may have been employed: so, the exigencies of the situation demanded it, just as exigencies in other stress. The only pity is that San Franeisco has failed atterly to profit by these sad experiences.

The passing of each crisis has been followed by a period of political indifference and civic inactivity which enconraged a return to looseness and corruption in the public administration. Conditions in San Francisco to-day, the shocking lack of civic righteousness and wholesale corruption in the public service, tell too plainly the tremendous price citizens of that city must ever pay for their disregard of public and political duty. San Francisco should profit by a lesson so dearly bought. The shadows will be pushed back in a little while, and the light will reveal the noble men and women who, on other occasions, linve wrested the city from unclean forces. When such as these shall have reclaimed the city, they should keep it and guard it lest it lapse, in a season of political uncon PURCHASERS will have the option of changing for OLIVERS | cern, into evil and hurtful ways.—Ex.

MAIL SUBSIDIES.

An Interesting Speech.

In the course of his speech at the annual meeting of the Royal Mail Steam Packet Company, Ltd., Mr Owen Philipps, M.P. (Chairman) referred to the question of mail subsidies. He said :-

"I would like to say a few words on the question of mail subsidies. The question of whether mail subsidies are or are not necessary is probably one about which there will be difference of opinion for many years to come. This company has had somewhat extensive and curious experience of all four systems of carriage of mails, namely :- Firstly, mail subsidies with fixed dates of sailing and a I guarantee of speed; secondly, mails paid for at a fixed poundage rate with fixed dates of sailing, but without any guarantee of speed; thirdly, mails paid as private ship letters at 1 per letter without any fixed dates of sailing and without any guarantee of speed; fourthly, mails carried free. These are the only methods I know by which mails are carried. We are still carrying mails free at a loss for countries, but hope before long they will be able to pay this company for the services are rendering. Either of the first two modes of payment is, in my opinion, fair, to the company owning passenger steamers, provided—and this is an important point-the Government treats all the great mail companies equally. It is doubtful if any country gains by paying a subsidy to shipowners except for services actually rendered. If the payment for all mails was based on the poundage of mails actually carried, like any other form of excessively valuable cargo, and the rate of poundage was settled in each case with some regard to the nature and value. of the services performed, I believe that it would, in the long run, be to the dvantage of all concerned, and if the money saved by the Government was spent in improving and cheapening cable communications, the necessity for very fast steamers would disappear, as very fast steamers are not as comfortable for passengers as large, well-fitted up steamers of more moderate speed. These remarks about subsidies do not apply to any service which is maintained solely on 2123 national and imperial grounds, and where (as an inter-colonial service in the West Indies) there is no trade to justify any service at all on a commercial basis; but they do apply to all cases where there is enough trade to pay a passenger service, provided the speed of the steamers is some what modified."

KAISER AND JAPAN.

A Foolish Canard.

In reference to the allegation in a New York telegram of July 6 that the Kaiser had declared that the Angle Japanese Alliance was a diplomatic blunder, we note, says a Kobe exchange, that a San Francisco telegram of July 7 to the "Asahi" asserts that in the course of some severe criticisms of the Japanese during His Majesty's visit to Copenhagen the other day, he said that the action of Great Britain, in entering into an alliance with Japan, was a shame to the white peoples. The Kaiser added, according to this tale that the Europeans had been very foolish in teaching their secrets to the yellow

This story is evidently on a par with the attempts which have lately been made by some of the American papers, as appears from recent cables, to represent Germany as concerned in the anti-Japanese movement. It will be remembered that during the Kaiser's visit to Donmark last year, similar canards were circulated, a French correspondent alleging that His Majesty had. made various remarks disparaging to Japan during a conversation on the Imperial

Before that date, moreover, all those who wish to smoke must appear before the recognised authorities, and from them get a license. These licenses are twofold. There is one for men who are over sixty runs :years of age, and have become confirmed smokers. Apparently these are to be allowed to continue the habit, without let or Then there is a second license which is to be given under certain conditions to those who are under sixty years of uge, and are moskers, though these form class of their own, and a license may be withheld from an applicant of this class. Then, further, another license is to b prepared for shopkeepers who will sell the drug, and these shopkeepers will be instructed that, even with their license, they are not allowed to sell opium to any one who is not supplied with a permit allowing them to smoke. Such is the system that is to be put into force in less than a month.

One or two things strike us. The arrangements me such that smuggling is possible. It seems difficult to prevent a shopkieser from selling orium to odd with a person, and these will certainly game is both unfair to the Empire to which present themselves when they want opium. Then if the licenses are sold and not given there will be a great temptation to work the system for all that it is worth, for i will mean a great revenue to the local officials, and those who want opinia, from all accounts of those who habitually smoke, will be quite willing to give the price of the license in order to get the drug. the other hand it seems strange to us, who are accustomed to all the talking and voting, and retalking in the West, when we want to do anything of the kind, that the Chinese Government can with a stroke of the pen, take away, from the people what many of them use daily and crave for, and yet there is no one who will lift up the hand to interfere and oppose.

It is apparently easier to get things done sometimes with an Absolute Monarchy. than in any other way, and every system of Government has its advantages as wel as its limitations. Of course we have to wait and see what will really follow all these elaborate preparations.

GENERALS AND BRIDGE.

It has been discovered that there is direct and intimate relation between the qualities of a born General and a clever Bridge player This, at any rate, was recently asserted by Mr Charles Vidal Diehl in the "Daily Mail." He has made a great study of the game, and has been conducting Bridge competitions for some years, and he says it has been proved to him without a possibility of doubt that the highest quality of play is among officers of the Army. The Navy makes a good second, and might possiby have come out equal if its opportunities and those of the critic had been greater. Mr Dield is led to the conclusion that the born General is a born | should be played each successive now year. Mr Diehl is not surprised by the story that General Botha anished up the four or five who made up the party. miles outside the capital; in this identical Doubtless Caesar, Hannibal, and Napoleon would have made admirable players. Mr Diehl chains to have shown, and to be himself convinced, that our Army officers are a class of men of remarkably welltheir calling. the remonstrance had proper effect. About half a century after this event the southern empire (which Marco Polo calls "Manzi") sent a mission to Cathay under a very celebrated and learned sta tesman named Chang Fang-ping. The Cathayan monarch was so struck with the dignity of his deportment that he turned to his courtiers and said: "Lucky, indeed, to possess such a subject as this!" The account goes on to say that they had a game of polo to ether and the Tartar mountch, beside presenting the envoy with his own pole horse, poured out wine for drinking a toast with his own royal hand. Probably the Southern dynasty, also, occasionally played polo, too, for it is related of another celebrated scholar named Wen Yen-poli that, when young and playing at ball-striking with other youths, some one knocked the ball into the hollow trunk of an old tree; such was the intelligence of the young man that he floated the ball out of the inaccessible hole by filling the trunk

Japanese Reflection on America.

The Tokyo representative of the "Mainichi" called on Count Okuma on July 9, when the veteran statesman made a statement to the following effect :- The American authorities are endeavouring to make the public believe that the despatch having arrived, Consignees of Cargo are of the battleships to the Pacific has no hereby informed that their Goods with the exception of Opium, Treasure and Vajuables, are being landed and stored at their risk into the hazardone and/on extra bases.

political significance. It is difficult, however, to take this view, although it would be premature to regard it as a warlike

Plague Spread by Pills.

ALLAHABAD, June 12. The "Pioneer's" Peshawar correspondlication

ent telegraphs :--It would appear that the recent scare about "pill" throwing which has been current in the Peshawar district has extended to tribes of independent territory across the border.

It was popularly believed that plague was due to some mysterious pills which were being thrown broadcast by evilly disposed persons with object of spreading Information received from Tiral seems to show that the Afridis are on the watch and intend to deal with 'the matter in their Lown way. It is said that a beggar called Mabbub Shah has been accustomed to go every year from Kohat to Tirah and beg there. A short time ago when he was at Maidan he was found to be in possession of a quantity of pills and he was promptly killed by the Zauddin Khels. Another man named Habib Badshah 1171 Saifid, of Bonf, who had probably gone to Tirah to practice medicine there, is reported to have been killed by the Mone Khels on suspicion that he was spreading the plague. After his death a considerable sum mency was found on his person as well as a bag of pills of various kinds which were at once burnt.

The third man is said to have been caught by the Zakka Khels who cut off his nose and cars.
